MRS. ALFRED BAILEY HEADS WOMEN VOTERS

Six Directors Are Named at Annual Election Held Friday.

Mrs. Alfred Bailey, prominent Atlanta clubwoman, Friday was re-elected president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, according to announcement by the elections committee of that organization. Six directors, who will compose next year's executive board were chosen as follows: Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. Harry Gershon, Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, Mrs. W. P. Tenny, Mrs. R. L. Turman and Mrs. A. W. Waldman.

Regular polls were open Friday at league headquarters and Mrs. Emmett Quinn served as general chairman of elections. Members also were privileged to vote by mail, the ballot having been published in the league publication, Facts. About 20 per cent of the total number of votes cast were mailed.

The officers elected Friday assume office in January, taking their official positions at the league's annual meeting held at that time.

Ledge of Rocks Declared Menace To School Children

YOUNG VICTIM TO BE BURIED TODAY

Photo shows Milas Wallace, 13, (right) of 592 Chestnut street, indicating the place from which the avalanche of rock came that crushed to death Joseph Virlyn Guice, (shown in inset) 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Guice, 596 Chestnut street, early Thursday night while he was standing beneath the rock waiting for several companions to climb down and join him. Johnny Wallace, 11 (left) was sitting on the 400-pound fragment that killed young Guice, and himself narrowly escaped death or serious injury as the huge stone started its downward plunge. Johnny Wallace almost was struck down by a trolley car as he scrambled to the street to avoid being hit by the falling stone, to which he had been clinging.

That the mass of perilously perched rocks on English avenue near Chestnut street, which Thursday caused the death of Joseph Virlyn Guice, eight years old, of 596 Chestnut street, has long been a menace to the children of that neighborhood was charged Friday by Miss Lulu Kingsberry, principal of the English Avenue elementary school, in pleading that steps be taken to prevent further accidents.

Playing with his companions Thursday afternoon, Joseph was climbing over the rock ledge which jutted over the sidewalk. He dropped safely to the sidewalk, while the rock was loosened as Johnny Wallace, a playmate, clambered down. Wallace felt the ledge loosen and sprang free while the rocks crashed down on Guice, inflicting injuries which caused his death later at Grady hospital.

Miss Kingsberry said Friday that the danger of these rocks had been discussed by members of the Parent-Teacher association, but that no definite action had ever been taken.

Funeral services for Guice will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the Welcome-All Baptist church, between College Park and Fairburn. The Rev. W. M. Albert will officiate and burial will be in the church yard.

The boy leaves one brother, Alton Guice, and three sisters, Mrs. Ruby Haygood, Miss Jessie Mae Guice and Miss Anita Guice.

Unexploded Shell Of Sixties Gives Policeman Thrill

City Policeman J. M. Tuggle, of 615 Kennedy street, has been a member of the police force for 22 years and has had many a novel experience but something new turned up Friday when the workmen at Davis Street school unearthed an old shell, undoubtedly dating back to civil war days, and turned it over to him for safe keeping. The fly in the ointment was that this relic had never been exploded and it caused Mr. Tuggle a few shudders when he thought what might have happened if a pickaxe had landed on it solidly. In addition, he was not at all sure when it might take a notion to explode without any outside help.

For more than 60 years the bomb-shell in question reclined peacefully beneath the soil causing no trouble at all, but having been brought to light, the question immediately arose whether or not it would remain peaceful. Being some six inches long and about three inches in diameter, there is no doubt but what a detonation would make things exceedingly unpleasant for anyone unfortunate enough to be in the immediate vicinity. And this was what was worrying Mr. Tuggle.

He first called the office of The Constitution and generously offered to bestow the souvenir on the city editor, who compromised by sending a reporter out to look at it. The reporter also found it necessary to decline the proffered gift and the next appeal was to various offices in the state capitol. After calling some three or four, the archives and history department agreed to give the projectile a home if it could be sent over.

There followed an appeal to police headquarters where a promise of transportation was obtained and the bomb-shell probably will be taken to the capitol today.

$90,000 IS VOTED COMMUNITY CHEST BY FULTON COUNTY

An appropriation of $90,000 for the Atlanta Community Chest, to be allocated to the various departments of the chest during 1929, was voted Friday afternoon by the Fulton county commission. The 1929 appropriation is an increase of approximately $14,000 over previous contributions of the county to the welfare organization.

The increased appropriation was voted by the commission with the understanding that the reorganized chest will include the Ansley Baby Memorial, where orphan children are cared for. H. M. Atkinson, president of the chest; Frank Miller, executive director, and Henry Heinz, immediate past president of Kivans International, appealed before the commission in the interests of the chest.

The commission voted an appropriation of $500 to pay off the debts of the Ansley Baby home, and increased the monthly appropriation of the home from $125 to $225 through January 1, when the county support of the home will come through the Community Chest.

ANGLO-FRENCH NAVAL ACCORD HIT BY GEORGE

Former Premier Declares He Hopes That It Is Gone Forever.

Oxford, England, November 16.—(P)—A hope that the Anglo-French naval accord had "gone forever" was expressed by David Lloyd George in an address at Oxford university today. The war-time premier in used scathing terms in discussing the disarmament policies of the Baldwin government.

"The naval accord has well been called a compromise," he said, "it compromises our honor and the peace of the world. I hope it has gone forever."

"So long as we go on with huge armaments in the face of our pledged word, the covenant of the League of Nations, the Locarno treaty and the Kellogg pact are mockeries and shams."

"But as our relations with Europe grow warmer, our armaments become bigger. All Europe is engaged in this, and even President Coolidge is joining in. I shall wait and see what Locarno means and until Germany claims arbitration on the Rhineland. That will be the real test."

"I am told that our relations with France and Germany are better than they have ever been. I wish it could have been said that our relations with America are better. I am alarmed about the situation. The nations are sharpening their knives on the very stones of the temple of peace."

'UKE' PLAYER HIT OF NEGRO SHOW AT 81 THEATER

With Elizabeth Smith, the "Ukulele Tom Boy," Albert Jackson, comedian of lute, and a team of first class tap dancers as the shining lights, "That's It," presented by the Majestic Theatrical Circuit, incorporated, at 81 Decatur street Friday night in a mid-night frolic for white persons only, is by far the best show that has been seen here this year. The doors opened at 11:30 o'clock and standing room only was left when the show began at midnight.

Elizabeth Smith made a big hit by her singing and playing on the "uke." She appeared in an encore number and only a limited time prevented her re-appearance on the stage. She is known from coast to coast as one of America's leading colored stars, and is surrounded by a strong array of some of the best colored performers who have ever appeared here.

In Albert Jackson, the show presented one of the cleverest comedians who has been seen this year. His make up is very good and when he appeared in a special dance number it was a general call for a continuous round of applause and laughter. His steps were different from any ever seen at 81 Decatur street.

St. Paul, Minn., November 16.—(P)—Minnesota's habitual criminal act adopted by the 1927 legislature, an adaptation of the Baumes law of New York, was upheld as constitutional today by the state supreme court. The law, aimed directly at the habitual criminal, or "repeater," had been attacked in appeals from two Minnesota counties.

New Six-Cylinder Chevrolet Models Will Make Bow To Atlanta December 18

Here's one of the most beautiful models in the new six-cylinder Chevrolet line—the sport cabriolet. The change to six-cylinder cars was announced Friday by the Chevrolet Motor company, member of the General Motors group.

Atlantans will be given their first opportunity to view the 1929 Chevrolet Six, announced Friday by the famous General Motors family manufacturer, in a special salon showing at the auditorium December 18 to 22. Interest in the new car—a radical departure for the Chevrolet Motor company—will be intense, and the elaborate display here is slated to attract heavy attendance. The exhibit is part of a national program of showings, and will come to this city direct from New York.

The new six-cylinder Chevrolet with body by Fisher will go on the market in the same range of prices that ruled in the four-cylinder cars hitherto manufactured by Chevrolet. First delivery will be made immediately after January 1.

In addition to many refinements and mechanical innovations, the speed of the new Chevrolet has been stepped up to 70 miles per hour, with vibration at a minimum. The motor is powered 22 per cent higher than its four-cylinder predecessor and performs magnificently on hills, actual demonstrations have shown.

General Motors engineers announced that the new car will operate on approximately the same amount of gasoline as the four. These facts have been brought to light through months of tireless testing under all driving conditions.

The new Chevrolet Six makes its bow to the public in a variety of beautiful new colors. Its lines are graceful, denoting speed and road flexibility, and it has scores of "talking points" for motor enthusiasts.

W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor company, states that his company will build and sell 1,250,000 of these cars during 1929.

"Tremendous output has enabled us to set this revolutionary price, which appears to be far less than anyone expected," he explained. "More than 1,000,000 cars of the four-cylinder type were sold so far this year. This has enabled us to put two more cylinders in the Chevrolet motor and give the public an automobile without an alibi."

CHATTANOOGA MAN TAKEN AFTER FIGHT WITH DRY SQUAD

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(P)—N. E. Edwards, of Chattanooga, was arrested near here today after a fight with two federal dry agents, who reported they found 15 cases of liquor in his automobile.

The agents said they found Edwards asleep in the car and when they awoke him, he stepped on the starter and attempted to escape. The officers said Thaw had an adjoining apartment.

Edwards then grabbed an automobile crank but they succeeded in overpowering him.

Prior to finding Edwards' car the officers found an abandoned truck in Upson county that contained 60 gallons of whisky. Both cars were brought here.

Starts Campaign To Repeal Arkansas Anti-Evolution Law

San Francisco, November 16.—(P)—Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America, announced today that his organization would start a campaign for repeal of the Arkansas anti-evolution law. The league is a national organization of scientists and educators who seek to prevent enactment of laws prohibiting the theory in schools that man originated through the development from lower forms of animal life.

Shipley said the league would not undertake a test case to determine the constitutionality of the law as was done in Tennessee as that would only mean that "some teacher would become a jobless martyr." Instead, the league, working through its members in Arkansas, will try to effect the election of legislators pledged to repeal the law and lead up to this by a campaign of education through lectures and publicity.

STATE MOTOR HEADS FAVOR HIGHWAY BONDS

The association directors and the cabinet were guests of chamber of commerce directors at luncheon, Goodloe Yancy, of Atlanta, president of the state association, which is affiliated with the American Automobile association, presided.

Cheraw, S. C., November 16.—(P)—S. C. Godfrey, vice president and cashier of the defunct First National Bank of Cheraw, was arrested here today on charges of embezzling funds of the institution. The warrant was sworn out by Thomas Davis, of Columbia, a national bank examiner. Godfrey was released on $10,000 bail.

The First National Bank of Cheraw closed its doors November 13. It had a capital of $50,000 and deposits of $240,000. William Godfrey, brother of the accused cashier, was president of the bank.

HEIRS OF JENNENS ARE SEEKING SHARE IN HUGE FORTUNE

A meeting of fifty alleged heirs of the estate of William L. Jennens, who died in England in 1798 and whose real estate and personal property in Suffolk county, of that country, is now said to be worth approximately $400,000,000, was held Friday in the office of W. A. Jennings, one of the heirs, at 1012 Atlanta National Bank building.

Mr. Jennings, as a result of this conference, will pay a visit to Norfolk, where he will meet Alton L. Jordan, attorney who has represented the American claimants to this estate in the English courts and who recently returned to this country.

Mr. Jordan reports, according to Mr. Jennings, that approximately one-third of the personal property of the estate, estimated at $45,000,000, should shortly be turned over to the heirs.

Mr. Jennings also will visit several cities in the Carolinas seeking necessary data in tracing the lineage of a number of the claimants. Mr. Jennings stated Friday that there were more than 400 claimants to a part of this estate already known and he expressed the belief that the actual descendants of William L. Jennens, if all could be found, would be more than ten times that number.

PLEA FOR RETRIAL LOST BY SHEPPARD, CONVICTED SLAYER

R. H. Sheppard, convicted in Fulton county on a charge of killing Homer Fowler with an ax last March and sentenced to death in the electric chair, lost his second appeal to the supreme court for a new trial in a decision handed down by the court Friday.

Sheppard was convicted of killing Fowler in a rooming house on Marietta street. It was charged at the trial that the slayer first struck his victim with the ax, knocking him unconscious, and that later a second blow was struck which killed Fowler. At the trial Sheppard entered a plea of self-defense. After his first conviction Sheppard received an automatic respite when he appealed to the supreme court and was granted a new trial. After his second conviction a new trial was sought on the ground that Sheppard was separated from his counsel during his trial by two court bailiffs and also it was contended that Judge E. D. Thomas, trial judge, left the courtroom during the trial. The supreme court declined to sustain these contentions.

MAN IS FORBIDDEN TO SPEAK TO WIFE BY ORDER OF COURT

A temporary order restraining Edward G. Harris from visiting his wife at her mother's home on North Boulevard, and from speaking to, or calling her on the telephone, was signed Friday by Judge E. E. Pomeroy when Mrs. Louise Harris filed suit for divorce.

Mrs. Harris, in her petition for a total divorce, charges her husband with cruel treatment and threats against her life, and alleges that he often struck and choked her. They were married on May 7, 1922, but have not lived together since June of 1923, the petition shows.

MONEY SNATCHER GIVEN SENTENCE OF 10 TO 15 YEARS

A toll of 10 to 15 years for money snatching was imposed Friday upon Charles Stephens by a jury in Judge E. E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court. Stephens was charged with snatching $104 from W. M. High, of the Terminal hotel, on September 20.

Charlie Clayton, alias Charlie Mitchell, was sentenced to serve two to five years for assault with intent to murder, on a plea of guilty before Judge G. H. Howard. Clayton was charged with stabbing B. F. Strickland, of Egan Park, on May 11.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR NEGRO UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

The supreme court Friday handed down a decision affirming a death sentence imposed on John Clark, a McIntosh county negro, convicted of murder. Clark was serving a life term on the chain gang when he killed a fellow convict with an ax. It was charged that he killed the convict, a negro, because he had interfered with Clark in an attempt of Clark to escape.

Attorneys for the negro entered a plea of insanity in his case but the supreme court declined to sustain their contention. Clark will be taken before the trial judge who will sentence him and fix a date for his execution at Milledgeville.

TWO-DAY RECESS Foreign Language Students To Attend Trade Conference.

A two-day recess for the students of the school of foreign languages, being conducted by the Atlanta Foreign Trade club, has been announced by Dr. George Raffalovich, dean of the school and professor of French, in order that they may be able to attend sessions of the second South-eastern Foreign Trade conference which convenes here Tuesday for a two-day meeting.

MONTHLY INTEREST OF FIVE PER CENT RULED LEGAL LIMIT

The collection of interest of more than 5 per cent per month on small loans under the small loan act is illegal in Georgia, according to a ruling handed down Friday by the supreme court. The ruling was made in a case against J. H. Bennett, Atlanta loan agent, who was indicted by the Fulton county grand jury on three counts alleging the collection of interest at an illegal rate.

Attorneys for Bennett filed a demurrer to the indictment on the ground that the act making such charges a criminal offense was repealed by legislation adopted in 1918. The case went to the supreme court on this demurrer but the supreme court ruled against the defendant.

7 BURNED IN BLAST OF AIR BRUSH UNIT; 2 ARE NEAR DEATH

Denver, November 4.—(AP)—Seven persons were burned, two perhaps fatally in an explosion in the plant of the Pasche Air Brush company here this afternoon.

Miss Bertha Knope, 19, an employee, was hurled through a window and struck two men passing on the sidewalk. Flames from her clothing ignited theirs and they were slightly burned.

At the Denver General hospital it was said she had little chance of recovery.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by an electric spark from an air compressor which ignited gas backed up in a trench dug for a natural gas main.

MARDI GRAS PROGRAM COMES TO END TONIGHT

Ladies' Minstrel Will Provide Climax to Brilliant Entertainments.

Opening Thursday night with a performance which was declared by the audience to be beyond doubt the finest amateur production ever seen in Atlanta, the "Mardi Gras," presented by the Atlanta court of the Ladies Oriental Shrine, is offering three distinct productions at the auditorium which will reach a climax in the "Ladies Shrine Minstrel" to be given tonight.

Under the direction of Green B. Adair, famous Atlanta minstrel man, a splendid cast of performers, all ladies, has been gathered together and a program including songs and sketches equal to the finest of minstrelsy will be offered.

The opening night, Thursday, was featured by a "Kiddie Revue," in which a large group of the splendidly-trained child dancers of the LaFontaine School of Dancing were the principals. Friday night was "Oriental Night," with the same performers giving an entirely different program with the aid of Rich's Mandolin club.

Tonight the principal roles in the ladies' minstrel will be taken by such well-known local artists as Mrs. M. L. Duggan, as "Sugar Boy"; Mrs. S. C. Hornbuckle, as "Life-Saver Lassies"; Miss Lucile Baker, as "Sunshine"; Grace Gaffney, as "Briarpatch"; Katherine Coley, as "Hambone"; and Miss Evelyn Hicks, as "Watermelon." Green B. Adair, the director, will act as interactor.

Among the chorus personnel are Mrs. C. N. Paschal, Mrs. E. Little, Mrs. Mildred Mearns, Mrs. E. L. Kohlman, Mrs. O. L. Perryman, Mrs. W. P. Harding, Sr. Mrs. M. E. Coley, Mrs. Pearl Baker, Mrs. Richard Simir, Mrs. W. J. Holt and Miss Annie Adair.

The performance Friday night proved to be a brilliant and colorful revue of exquisite dances, interspersed with delightful selections by Rich's Mandolin club.

A feature of the nightly performances is the public dance which is held each night after the close of the regular program until midnight. A magnificent dance orchestra, under the leadership of Meyer Segal, provides the music, and large crowds are enjoying this feature of the production.

The "Mardi Gras" was decided upon as a means of raising the funds necessary for the entertainment of the national convention of the Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, which is to be held in Atlanta next spring.

Schlesinger Firm Will Give Cakes On Thanksgiving

If any charitable institute goes without Thanksgiving cakes for its inmates on Thanksgiving, it will be its own fault. For there is a concern in Atlanta that is not only ready, but anxious, to give the finest possible cakes for this event to all such institutions.

Harry L. Schlesinger, Inc., big Atlanta manufacturer of cakes and candy and crackers, has made it a practice for the last 20 years to furnish these "Thanksgiving cakes." "Practically everyone donates for Christmas, so we do it for Thanksgiving," they explain.

Last year, however, the company was disappointed because one or two of the institutions didn't read the daily papers and thus learn about the offer. It is a real disappointment to the officials of the Schlesinger concern when they are thus deprived of the opportunity of giving their finest cakes away. Fact?

So, this year, they are hoping that every charitable institution will read this—or hear about the offer some way—and that not a one of them will be without a free Schlesinger cake upon the festive board on the day of Thanksgiving.

HEALTH OFFICERS PLAN TO COMBAT MALARIA IN STATE

Plans to combat malaria mortality in several Georgia counties will be discussed at a meeting of health officers to be held at Waynesboro Tuesday, it was announced Friday by Dr. F. E. Abernethy, state health officer. Some increases in malaria mortality have been reported because of the increase of mosquitoes due to flood conditions during the summer, it was announced. Plans to meet the present situation and to prevent its recurrence next year will be discussed.

RAILROAD ORDERED TO PAY OUT $60 FOR SLAIN HOUND

The court of appeals handed down a ruling Friday in an unusual case, when it held that a fox hound, killed by an Alabama Great Southern passenger train was worth $60 to its owner, John L. McCauley, in a case appealed from the Cherokee circuit court.

Attorneys for the railroad contended that the animal was killed when it ran under the train while chasing a fox. The railroad lost its case in the lower court and sought a new trial, which was denied by the court of appeals.

North Georgia Conference Honors Popular Pastor of Athens Church.

Dr. W. P. King, who, for the past ten years, has contributed a popular series of weekly Bible articles to The Constitution, was chosen editor of the "Quarterly Review," and book editor for the Southern Methodist church.

at the North Georgia conference now in session at Wesley Memorial church here.

Dr. King has just completed two years as pastor of the First Methodist church at Athens. His new assignment will necessitate his removal to Nashville and he stated that he expects to leave for that city on November 28. Dr. King will, however, continue his connection with the North Georgia conference and also will continue his popular weekly contributions to The Constitution.

Well-Known Pastor. Dr. King has been one of the best known and most universally liked pastors in the conference. Before taking the Athens charge he was pastor of the First Methodist church of Gainesville and prior to that was editor of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate. Earlier still he was pastor of the First Methodist church of Griffin.

Dr. King is a well-known author on biblical subjects, his first book, "Practice of the Principles of Jesus," having had a heavy sale.

This latest volume, "Faith in the Divine Fatherhood," is just from the press and already has received high commendations from some of the leading clergies in the country. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, of Broadway Tabernacle church, New York, in a recent letter said:

"I am greatly pleased with your book, 'Faith in the Divine Fatherhood.' You have shown yourself a sane and well-balanced writer. You have not only the adequate knowledge but you have the right spirit."

"I am especially interested in the two chapters on the heresy of the orthodox. I wish these two chapters might be read by every Christian in the United States."

In commenting upon the same volume, Dr. A. Frank Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of Houston, Texas, said:

"You have done it again and even better than before. Never before have I seen combined in one volume such a statement of theological theories, followed by a practical application of those theories to the problems of daily life. You have written a book that will bring theology within the ken of every layman who reads it, as well as one that will be of invaluable worth to every preacher who reads it."

With Christmas only a few short weeks away, the Keely company Friday announced the opening of a gift shop on the third floor of the Whitehall street department store.

The gift shop at Keely's is one of a number of innovations inaugurated by Edward Kleinstiver, recently made manager of that department. Mr. Kleinstiver has just returned from the eastern markets, and the entire gift shop stock is of his personal selection.

The Keely Gift Shop opens at 9 o'clock this morning with an elaborate display of novelties and ornamental home accessories and with special offerings on many items for the occasion, as well as attractive souvenirs for women visitors.

RELIEF FOR FARMERS SEEN BY PATTERSON

Alabama Solon Visits Gov.-
Elect Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

Warm Springs, Ga., November 16. (AP)—Confidence that the coming short session of congress would "do something" about the agricultural situation in the United States was expressed here today by Congressman L. L. Patterson, of fifth Alabama district, on a visit with Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor-elect of New York.

Congressman Patterson said he believed that congress would seek some solution of the farm problem at its next session, unless an extra session is called to handle farm relief.

The Alabama visitor told Mr. Roosevelt that while the Elizabeth-Town, Tenn., "literation of President-elect Herbert Hoover on power development apparently did not meet with approval of many Alabamians, "economic issues were forgotten as part of the vote Alabama cast against the democratic presidential candidate."

Agricultural conditions in Alabama, he said, were "not so good as they might be." He said the people of Alabama were especially anxious to have the Muscle Shoals project developed. "They want the shoals to produce fertilizer first and power afterwards," he said.

The congressman motored to Warm Springs, where Mr. Roosevelt is on a month's visit to take the mineral bath exercises for indigestion and paralysis. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. F. B. Saltsman, of LaGrange, Ga. He extended an invitation to Roosevelt to pay Alabama a visit.

The governor-elect said he had received an invitation from the legislature to visit Alabama a week before returning to New York. Mr. Roosevelt visited the Tuskegee institute for negroes at Tuskegee, Ala., which is in the congressman's district. He said he had long been interested in the school founded by Booker T. Washington and would try to include Tuskegee in any visit he might make to Alabama.

Foreign Students Of Tech, Emory In Joint Banquet

BY C. M. McILLAN.
"Above all nations is humanity, and we are glad," this was the theme of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, as he spoke Friday night before fifty students representing more than a dozen different nations at a banquet at the Tech Y. M. C. A. The occasion was the first joint banquet of the Cosmopolitan clubs of Emory university and Tech. Probably a more unique group of young people never before assembled in Atlanta, Mexicans, Cubans and Spaniards called greetings, "Buenos Dias," and "Bon Jour," and "Ope Lat" echoed back. Bulky Russians, many of whom had fled their country to escape death by the bolsheviks, smiled greetings, and Japanese and their kindred in color responded with a twinkling of the eye. The sturdy Swede was there, and the turbaned Turk, though he had left his turban at home.

Dr. Brittain, who was introduced by the toastmaster, W. N. Cashion, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., stood before the half a hundred students and with the words of Dr. Brittain's theme, "disunited we stand, united we are strong," he said "we are not immigrants, but representatives of our respective nations. We are proud of our own civilizations, but we want to know other civilizations." And in response Monsieur P. Gavrilovitch, formerly of Russia and head of the Emory club, said "never before have I known a greater occasion. The cry for peace may have been realized by those who signed the treaty in Paris, but it is only on this occasion that the real significance has been understood."

ILLEGAL ARREST CHARGED IN SUIT AGAINST OFFICER

Charges that he was unlawfully arrested and detained are made in a damage suit for $1,000 filed Friday in the city court against Officer W. L. Johnson against Policeman Olin W. Williams.

Johnson's petition alleges that he was arrested in front of his mother's home at 1107 Capitol avenue on the night of November 3 after the defendant threatened to break the door down if he did not open it. Williams did not have a warrant for him and the disorderly conduct charge on which Williams arrested him was dismissed by the recorder, Johnson claims.

Johnson charges that Williams, accompanied by another policeman, took him from his home while he was ill with influenza, and while on the way to the police station, the defendant's automobile collided with another car, resulting in injuries to Johnson's knee and side.

Adolfo De La Huerta, Once Famous in Mexico, Giving Vocal Lessons

Los Angeles, November 16. (AP)—Adolfo de la Huerta, one-time provisional president of Mexico and for years a central figure in the stormy history of the southern republic, has become a vocal teacher here where he is living the quiet life of an political exile.

Several Hollywood film actors and actresses, expecting to venture into the realm of the talking movies, are said to have become pupils of the former Mexican leader. De la Huerta declined to discuss the vocation when reporters saw him.

CHECK CHARGES CAUSE NUMEROUS TRUE BILLS

Alleged forgers and fictitious check artists—Friday suffered a bad day at the hands of the Fulton county grand jury.

T. P. Norris, who was released under 12 months probation recently after pleading guilty to cheating and swindling charges in superior court, was named in seven forgery indictments.

Norris is charged with forging the names of G. P. Norris, secretary and treasurer, and M. G. Norris, president of the Norris Construction company, to checks alleged to have been passed on the following: $300, on June 16, the Postal Telegraph and Cable company; $25, on July 14, on F. Ewart Christopher, and $15, on July 14, on A. M. Verner & Son.

Norris also is charged with forging the names of F. G. Gordon, assistant treasurer, and J. C. Dusky Chicken Thief Grabs Entire Crate And Flees From Store

Seldom has fortune smiled so sweetly on the raiders of chicken coops as she did early Friday night upon a dusky robber, who, with a single gesture, stole 15 of the coveted fowls. This coup de grace of chicken thievery was executed at the expense of N. Mazier, proprietor of a store at 373 Pulliam street. Mazier told officers that a lanky negro walked slowly up to the front of his establishment and stood for a moment as if looking over the stock. Then he suddenly seized a crate containing the hens and made good his escape down the street despite a spirited pursuit by proprietor and customers.

The robber displayed familiarity with the money shipments carried and gathered up each package before he left the train here.

After Wilson's arrest Pruett said he was unable to identify him as the robber. Carney identified Wilson immediately.

Miss Howard Weds Mr. Barrett At Beautiful Church Ceremony

A wedding of unusual beauty was that of Miss Virginia Howard and Julian Nichols Barrett, at Pampa, Texas, which was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal church. The marriage service was performed by the Rev. N. R. High Moore, of that church. Of unusual sentiment was the date chosen for this wedding, for it was the birthday of the charming bride.

The ushers, Hampton Howard and Theodore Lewis, of LaGrange, entered first, followed by the groomsmen, Lonnie Lyda, Madison Massey, Sam Murray, Ray Mitchell, Heywood Becknell, Chesley B. Howard, Jr., and Henry Ligon, of Philadelphia.

Misses Mary Rhorer and Mary Middleton, gowning alike in pale pink, were the first of the bridesmaids to enter, followed by Misses Lucie Johnson and Mary Mathieson wearing a deep shade of rose. Misses Frances Lucie Howard, cousin of the bride, and Alice Gayle entered last, wearing gowns of lavender.

Miss Frances Howard attended her sister as maid of honor, gowning in shades of rose. All of the bride's attendants' gowns were modeled alike of tulle with a long, close-fitting waist, modish skirt fashionably longer on the right side and caught to the left hip with a fluffy tulle bow. The bridesmaids wore a hand of rhinestone brilliants supported the bodice on the left shoulder, extending into a design on the basque. Satin slippers of corresponding shades completed the costumes. Pink roses and lavender sweet peas tied effectively with green tulle formed the bouquets.

Attractive Bride. The lovely bride entered the church with her father, Chesley B. Howard, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Blake Touchette. Her bridal robes were of ivory satin fashioned with a satin tunic over a slip of rare rose-point lace longer in back than front. The tunic was caught at the waist in the front with a sunburst of rhinestone brilliants, forming the draped waistline. The hem of the tunic was cut in points and edged in pearls and rhinestones. The yoke was daintily offset in the same fashion. The long court train was made of satin and fell from the shoulders. The tulle veil was fashioned cap-shaped and was caught across the forehead with a coronet of lace. A rose-point lace veil, worn by both Mrs. Hulse and Mrs. Lewis, cascaded the length of the train, being caught to the back of the head with a wreath of orange blossoms. Adding a touch of sentiment to the costume was the bit of lace carried by the bride, a handkerchief in the trosser of her grandmother, Mrs. Isabel O'Hear. Ivory satin slippers daintily embellished in pearls completed the bridal costume. The bouquet was of orchids, showered with valley lilies.

Handsome Gowns. Mrs. Chesley B. Howard, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowning in black shadow velvet, studded in brilliants. Her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chesley B. Howard entertained the members of the bridal party at supper at their home on Westwood drive. The center table in the dining room was covered with a rich lace cloth and held as its centerpiece a magnificent wedding cake embedded in a floral arrangement of white roses and Easter lilies surrounded at intervals by burning white tapers. The bride presented her attendants with brilliant bracelets, while the groom's attendants received silver knives.

During the evening Mr. Barrett and his bride left for a wedding journey in the west, after which they will be at home on Hemphill avenue in Fort Worth, Texas. For traveling Mrs. Barrett wore an ensemble of brown. The satin dress was pleated and worn under the brown broadcloth coat with fitch collar. She wore a small hat of two shades of brown and brown suede slippers.

The out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. A. B. Patterson, of Barwell; Miss Frances Lucie Howard, of London, England; Miss Mary Mathieson, of Philadelphia; Henry Ligon, of Philadelphia, and Hampton Howard, of Liverpool.

THE YOUNG PRETENDERS

By Alice Grant Rosman

SYNOPSIS

While lying helpless in bed after a motor accident, Hugo Donaldson broods over the fact that his father, with whom he had quarreled just before the crash, has never seen him since. He decides that he must be dead and that his mother and the servants are keeping it from him. His aunt, Lady Eleanor Wise, a great gossip, comes to call and tells Hugo that his friend Paul Morison had expected to marry Paul and his heartbroken over the affair. Hugo is distressed by the story and asks his mother to have Bunny Morison come to see him. Bunny comes and tells Hugo the story. Paul, she believes, has been the victim of blackmailers and his family, because of his marriage, has failed to stand back of him in the affair. Bunny assures Hugo that she was never engaged to Paul, but because of her lifelong friendship for him she would like to help him.

INSTALLMENT XII. DREAMS.

The smile died suddenly from Hugo's face.

"Why aren't you in black, mother?" he said clutching his courage in both hands.

"Black, darling? But it's so dismal," exclaimed his mother in astonishment. "You wouldn't like me to wear black, surely?"

"But you ought to wear black when you're a widow," protested Hugo obstinately.

"Hugo! Hugo, my darling, what are you saying? I... I don't know what you mean. How can you say such dreadful things to me?" cried his mother, gazing at him with terror in her face.

But she didn't deny it. Hugo noticed that.

"It's all right, mother. Don't try to hide it from me," he begged desperately. "It's truly all right. I want you to be a widow. I do, really. You are a widow, aren't you?"

"No, no, you know I'm not. O, Hugo, how can you be so cruel? I... I can't bear it. To want me to be a widow as well as—"

She had gone; she had broken down and rushed, crying from the room, all the brave cheerfulness which she had worn for the invalid wiped away by this stranger who had once been her son.

And Hugo, shaking all over, knew the truth at last. His mother was not a widow; the great secret had gone up in smoke. His father simply did not want to come and see him.

There were no visitors that morning, but Hugo did not care. He could not think of Bunny or Paul or the lodger of the mother of the young man Tright's daughter was walking out with. He could not even think of his mother, crying and thinking him mad or a villain or both, in the bitterness that possessed him.

Tright came in, hiding concern behind his flat face, opened the French windows, and since the day was melting and fair, gently wheeled the bed out on the balcony.

"There now, might be a summer morning, and that will be a little change for you," said Tright.

Hugo, craving nothing for change or summer morning, closed his eyes and clenched his hands, every nerve crying out to Tright to go away and leave him alone.

Tright went back to the blue room, was presently called from it, and the faint hum of voices came out to the boy from behind the dividing door. But even the fact that as usual they were talking him over did not rouse him from his misery. Ages late it was time for luncheon and he was moved in again, but he merely played with his food, finally lighting a pipe and smoking furiously, because this action seemed inappropriate to his surroundings and therefore soothed him.

The doctor knocked at the door. Hugo knew that light tap, with a hint of facetiousness behind it, and scowled, hitting his pipe stem defiantly. What was the good of Dr. Hugo to him? But beyond the too jovial, familiar figure was another, and Hugo's heart beat furiously, until he saw that it was a stranger.

"I've brought my friend Sir John Winde to see you, Donaldson," said

Dr. Hissop. "You are my prize patient, you know, and I like to show you off now and then. Come in Sir John and see this fellow's beautiful room."

Hugo's scowl grew darker. Another doctor came to put him about. He loathed the whole tribe of them. But the newcomer ignored the beautiful room and his face remained inscrutable to the abandoned cheerfulness of the other's tone. He came to the bedside and held out a courteous hand to the young man.

"I've been wanting a pipe for hours," he said. "May I keep you company?"

"O, rather," said Hugo, suddenly like the lined face of this tall old man. "Won't you sit down, sir?"

After a brief examination of the patient, Dr. Hissop strolled out on to the balcony, presently returned and disappeared through the dividing door in search of Tright. Hugo, surprised at these unusual tactics, glanced at his visitor and met the faintest of understanding smiles.

"It is irksome to be a prize patient or any other kind of patient, I know," he said as he filled his pipe, "but Hissop is an enthusiast and sincere. You have a better physique than any fellow he knows, he tells me."

"A lot of use it is to me now," said Hugo with a grimace.

"I rather think you are wrong there," said Sir John conversationally. "Old things, nature shows us out roundly, more often than not, but just now and then she does give us a pat on the back. Your fitness will be a big asset to you as your strength returns."

"I'll never get up again you know," said Hugo, making the confidence in spite of himself.

"Who says so?" asked Sir John, as though the idea surprised him.

"Human nature is just as odd as the other kind, my boy," nodded Sir John. "People are queer fish, full of ideas and most of them wrong in the long run. I've come to the conclusion. Just hang on to that notion and ignore their signs and portents. Science can do wonders now-a-days and a fellow with a steady mind can help it more than you might think."

"I don't know whether I have a steady mind or not," said Hugo interested.

"Then the chances are, you have," "Really?" The patient's eager glance became suddenly suspicious. "Are you an alienist, Sir John?"

"No, old man. I'm not even here to throw dust in your eyes, for I have a notion it wouldn't be any use. Nerves are my department, and since yours have probably been shaken up to some extent, Hissop persuaded me to come along and see you this afternoon. That is another thing you have probably never considered... eh?"

"O Lord, no. I haven't any nerves."

"Good. You don't dream, I suppose. Or do you, now and then?"

Dream? Hugo became wary, for he knew all about dreams. There was that fellow Freud that a group of brainy chaps had discussed in little Webster's room one night. Hugo was glad he had sat through the argument now though it had bored him at the time, for they weren't going to get information out of him about his dreams.

"I dream occasionally," he admitted in a casual tone. "Last night I dreamt about encephalitis."

He didn't know why he said it, except that it was the first thing that came into his head and quite untrue. He was determined now to lead his questioner astray. "I don't even know what they are," he added brightly.

"Let me see. Old Assyrian writing, I fancy," said the specialist, and was suddenly confronted by a white face and a pair of startled dark eyes. "Now, that's an odd thing to dream of," he added without appearing to notice. "Did you ever try to hunt a dream to its source? It's rather amusing."

Hugo, grateful that his excitement had passed without comment and for the amazing disclosure that had produced it, became cordial again.

"I'll have a shot at it," he promised. "I'll have some really fruity ones for you the next time you come, sir."

"You'll pull my old leg, I suppose?"

TRAFFIC ADMITTED TO HUNTER STREET AFTER LONG DELAY

Hunter street, important traffic artery which has been closed for several months because of construction work on the Pryor and Mitchell street viaducts, was again open to traffic on Friday. The new concrete pavement having thoroughly set, the street barriers were removed, and traffic was allowed to move through the street.

Hunter street has been regarded so as to conform to the level of the viaduct approaches. The obstructions at Whitehall street were removed Friday, the last concrete having been poured on Hunter street about 10 days ago. Pouring of concrete on the viaduct was not a means of lessening traffic congestion on Mitchell street.

The Day in Finance

By

New York, November 16.—Speculative Wall street has for many weeks been maintaining a high record of trading in the stock market. Undoubtedly this position would have been maintained if yesterday's weekly statement reflecting high record trading in the stock market had shown a high record weekly increase. Instead, however, the increase of only $1,849,000 was the smallest in many months. And because of this there was a wild opinion of the stock market, active shares changing hands in blocks of 5,000, 10,000 and even 15,000 lots, with prices up from 2 to 10 points.

No explanation was found for the unexpected small weekly increase in brokers' loans. The best guess is that the record breaking activity in the stock market following the election of Hoover was financed by sources not reporting to the federal reserve. Unless there should be a break in the stock market between now and the end of the month the monthly statement of brokers' loans made by the New York Stock Exchange will probably tell a different story from that of federal reserve. The monthly brokers' loan statement of the stock exchange includes all loans made by brokers in connection with bond or stock transactions whether or not such loans are included in those reported by member banks to the federal reserve.

1,421,000 Shares in Hour

Trading in stocks during the first 15 minutes this morning, reflecting optimism because of the unexpectedly small weekly increase in brokers' loans, amounted to more than 600,000 shares, a new high record for this period, compared with 500,000 shares the first 15 minutes the morning after election. For the first hour a new high record was made at 1,421,000 shares, against the previous high for that period, made November 7, at 1,290,000 shares.

Shortly after the opening there was some profit-taking but this was followed and the upward price movement was resumed, with the tape now running over an hour behind the floor.

There were buying orders in Packard and at the opening aggregating 30,000 shares. Only 10,000 shares were offered, however, and a special committee of the stock exchange had to make a decision regarding the opening price. The opening price was five points above last night's closing with another five points gained before the insiders in Packard are telling their friends that the first quarter net earnings will be over $8,000,000 against $5,500,000 a year ago, equal to $2.90 a share for the first quarter of 1928. The company's fiscal year ends with August. Insiders also report progress in the new airplane department.

Coppers Are Strong
Coppers were strong with Kennecott a favorite. Directors of Kennecott met next morning to act on dividends. An increase is expected from the very large earnings recently reported.

Brokers report that 180 is being bid for a 20-day call on steel common.

Small Increase in Brokers' Loans Paves Way for Biggest Day in History of Stock Exchange.

Speculative Wall street is confident that the steel corporation will again follow General Motors in a readjustment of capitalization. Banks here are beginning to distribute money to members of Christmas clubs. It is estimated that the total for the country this year will be $550,000,000 which will be $500,000,000 above last year and five times larger than 1920. The average amount saved by members in weekly or monthly payments was $59.10. Many people use these earnings for year-end taxes and other "fixed" charges in addition to Christmas expenditures.

TROLLEY IS MADE TARGET OF SHOTS FIRED BY NEGROES

Several shots were exchanged and a negro is believed to have been wounded late Friday night in a quarrel between street car operators on the federal prison line and several negroes. The trouble is said to have grown out of a disturbance created on a car by the negroes.

According to reports made to police, C. A. McAfee, motorist, was returning his car out Jonesboro avenue, near McDonald street, when the negroes began making an unreasonable amount of noise. The motorist then walked to the rear of the car and warned them to be quiet. As he returned to his controls two of the negroes followed him and each drew a knife as they approached him. After slashing at him they jumped from the car and McAfee drove his gun and sent several shots into the flying bullets. The police early this morning were making an attempt to locate the negroes.

GERMANS DECIDE TO CONTINUE WORK ON BATTLESHIP

Berlin, November 16.—(AP)—The construction of the first German warship laid down since the war will continue as the result of the rejection by the reichstag today of a socialist-democratic motion to turn the funds to other uses. The vote was 255 to 205, with eight abstentions, who are members of the German peasants' party.

The majority of 52 for rejection of the motion automatically disposed of a socialist motion to use the liberated funds for protective measures against gas and air raids and likewise against a communist motion to use the money to feed children.

FIX COTTON DELIVERY AT OPTION OF SELLER

New York, November 16.—(AP)—Southern deliveries of cotton, making deliveries permissible at seller's option at New York, Norfolk, Charleston, Galveston, Houston, or New Orleans, henceforth will be an established feature of trading on the New York Cotton exchange.

Members today approved the plan, consumption of which has been sought for years, in adopting by a vote of 260 to 45 three amendments to the rules and by-laws. The other amendments provide for limitation of interest and appointment of a committee on control.

Adoption of the plan for southern deliveries calls for a new contract, effected by the board of managers, which is to be decided by the board of managers. When delivery is made elsewhere than New York, 35 points will be deducted from the invoice price by the deliverer. In addition to naming the southern delivery points, the amendment provides that shipping cotton to delivery points at an obvious loss for the purpose of artificially influencing prices shall be considered detrimental to the best interests of the exchange.

Under the amendment covering limitation of interest, the interest in futures contracts for delivery in any one month of any individual, firm or corporation shall not exceed a limit prescribed by the board of managers. Cases of hedge against the purchase or sale of spot or cash cotton are exempted from such limitation, except when the managers decide hedging transactions are of such volume as to affect or endanger the normal parties between months or markets, or for other valid reason.

The control committee, to be composed of three members appointed annually by the board of managers, but not members of the board, is authorized to direct the clearing association treasurer to require each carrying member to report names and interests in the designated position of all clients, as well as his own. Identities of members will be secret unless interests are found to exceed the fixed limits, in which case names will be reported to the committee. Members and their records will be summoned for investigation and cases not possible all correct.

President Gardner H. Miller, commenting tonight on the amendment, adoption of which he characterized as "one of the most constructive steps ever taken by the exchange," said that southern deliveries would check abnormal price movements between markets and between various months in the New York market.

"It is believed that these changes," he said, "will afford a broader, safer market for hedging purposes and that with the fear of manipulation removed, the business of the exchange will undoubtedly increase. The step is a progressive one and in line with the modern tendency to eliminate unnecessary restrictions on the free market of such a great staple commodity as cotton."

T. J. SAUNDERS DIES

End Comes at Old Soldiers' Home.

T. J. Saunders, 90-year-old veteran of the war between the states, died Friday morning at the Confederate Soldiers' home after an illness of several months. The veteran, who was known to his companions as "T. J. of company G" entered the home about a year ago and at that time was in poor health.

He was born in Houston county in 1837 and enlisted in the Tenth Georgia regiment in 1863, serving through the remaining years of the war and taking part in many engagements. Despite his failing health and advanced years, "T. J." was the memory of the great struggle remained undimmed and his stories of the war were eagerly listened to by visitors, young and old.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. B. Johnson, of Lyons, and Mrs. W. H. McMillan, of Macon, and several grandchildren. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.
